

Health Equity Seminar Series: January 8, 2021

The Cornell Center for Health Equity sponsors monthly Health Equity Seminars alternating between the New York City and Ithaca campuses.

Abstract of Presentation:

African Americans with depression are more impaired, have a longer illness course, and have more severe symptoms compared to White Americans. The purpose of this talk is to briefly review socio-ecological factors that contribute to mental health inequities and describe a novel, church-based depression intervention.

Speaker:

Sidney Hankerson, MD, MBA
Co-Director, Columbia University
Wellness Center
Assistant Professor of Psychiatry,
Columbia University Medical Center

Topic:

Partnering with Black Churches to Promote Mental Health Equity

Zoom: Register Here | 12:30 PM - 1:30 PM

